

General form of hypothesis	For population P	in condition C	independent variable X	causes (or causal relation)	dependent variable Y
Abstract Hypothesis	For People	Who are frustrated	[high] Status of frustrator	Inhibits	aggression
Measurement Assumptions (is a measure of)
Operational Hypothesis	Among people driving around Palo Alto that Sunday morning	who are blocked for several seconds at a green light	by new expensive cars (compared to old cheap cars)	do less	horn honking 1) (yes, no) 2) #: 0, 1, 2 3) Seconds before 1 st honk

Abstract and operational hypotheses in Doob & Gross Article